RESULTS OF APRIL 24, 4th SATURDAY BIRD WALK at the Nature Center in Pueblo: Four birders met at 8 A.M. They were Brandon Percival, Clif Smith, Harry Rurup and Al. The weather forecast had not been good, but cloudiness and a wind which came up late in the walk were the only negatives. We saw at least 38 species of which I will name a few of the highlights.

There were hundreds of Violet-green Swallows with many perched on the power lines. Along with these, there were a few Barn Swallows and a Northern Rough-winged Swallow. We saw Wilson's Warbler, Black-throated Gray Warbler, Orange-crowned Warbler and an abundance of Yellow-rumped Warblers.

Other species included, Osprey, Kestrel, Red-tailed Hawks, Turkey Vulture, Yellow-headed Blackbird, Horned and Pied-billed Grebes, Northern Shoveler, Bushtit, House Wren, Bewick's Wren (heard), Lesser Goldfinch, Double-crested Cormorant, Snowy Egret, Great Blue Heron, Belted Kingfisher, Franklin's Gulls (flock of 30), Lincoln's Sparrow, White-crowned Sparrow, Spotted and Canyon Towhee, Barn Owl and Great-Horned Owl up in the rock clefts.
